

Independent Bulgarian Energy Exchange (IBEX) now offers to its members registered on Intraday market segment and having an active status a service for access via application programming interfaces (API).

The new service facilitates the access of trading participants to the trading platforms and enables automatic submission, change and cancellation of orders, receiving results as well as connection of IT platforms for energy business management to the physical markets for electricity.