

Oil company Ina Group, owned by MOL Hungary, and HEP Supply entered into an agreement for the electricity supply in 2015th, worth 10 MEUR, said in Ina. The contract was signed after the procedure of free competition finished, in which five bids were received, among which the best was the offer submitted by HEP supply, says in a statement.

From Ina state that the opening of the electricity market has allowed them to choose their electricity supplier through open competition, which has led to increased competitiveness of quality and price range.

However, from HEP emphasize that they firmly hold the position as the leading supplier of economic operators with high power consumption, which are also the most vulnerable in terms of supply and prices security.
